We have some flexibility around the work schedule for this role, please describe your desired schedule in your cover letter.

STAND!'s case management services also include peer counseling, direct services provision, danger assessments, safety planning, and linking clients to a wide range of resources and services across Contra Costa County.

The Liaison will be responsible for maintaining our successful partnership with FJC, representing STAND! in a variety of meetings and events, and providing training and education to FJC staff about domestic violence and related issues.

Since the Liaison will spend most of their time working outside of STAND!'s facilities, the successful candidate will have experience working independently with minimum supervision and be comfortable and confident in their own ability to make decisions about how best to serve clients who are in a crisis. They will be able to demonstrate an ability to build and maintain collaborative relationships with social service partners while exhibiting a strong commitment to STAND!'s philosophy and values.

Information management is an important part of the work of this position, and the Liaison will maintain appropriate program record information for communication, evaluation and reporting purposes.
